

Express CEO and Senior Vice President Named to Staffing Industry Analysts' 2022 Staffing 100 List

OKLAHOMA CITY, February 16, 2022—Express Employment International CEO Bill Stoller and Dina Overholt, senior VP of sales support, have been named to Staffing Industry Analysts' 2022 Staffing 100 list, which honors the “bold leaders of our industry.”

The 11th annual iteration is sponsored by Indeed and highlights individuals who navigated the challenges of 2021 and are industry innovators with an eye toward future workforce solutions.

Stoller began his staffing career in 1973 as a placement consultant with Acme Personnel Services; today, he serves as founder, CEO and chairman of Express Employment Professionals, the 11th-largest staffing firm worldwide.

In 2021, Express' franchisees broke a number of sales records even in the face of the pandemic, a feat of which Stoller is incredibly proud. As he looks to the future, Stoller aims to grow Express' franchise system further, advance the organization's technology transformation and continue to provide hope through employment. He currently sits on the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce Board of Advisors.

With 30 years' staffing leadership experience, Dina Overholt became senior VP of sales support at Express in March 2020, just one day before the pandemic transitioned the company's headquarters employees to work remotely.

Under her leadership, several departments came together under a singular sales support umbrella, collaborating to develop and deliver world-class training and resources. Overholt plans to continue motivating, empowering and inspiring team members to dream big, flourish in their skills and embrace opportunities. She is affiliated with the American Staffing Association, ACSESS and the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Colorado.
